

Hello everyone,

Here is as promised more stuff to ponder. If you have not yet read what I wrote on December 16, you may want to read it first at http://www.earthrainbownetwork.com/pdf/Back_in_the_Saddle.pdf.

Please note this, above, is a revised final version with a link to the French version at the bottom if need be.

This is THE Moment we have been anticipating for years... for lifetimes indeed.

In the deepest recess of our soul's heart where the memories of our own creation and of the multitudinous experiences we went through up to this very NOW moment are held, the vision of what lies ahead for us all, of what we have been striving towards for so many aeons is shining like a space-time beacon guiding us Home.

We are at the fulcrum pivotal moment in the Continuum where the long awaited liberation of countless souls from the searing grip of fear is happening in the blink of a cosmological eye – numerous centuries from our linear time perspective, but precious few little nanoseconds at the time scale of eternity. To get a wide enough perspective to better appreciate the scope and significance of what is transpiring, we need to undertake a narrative journey that will test and stretch your ability to encompass in your mind that for which you may not have enough preparation to see without the obstructive influence of doubt and disbelief. Or you may... in which case you should reach more easily the pinnacle of a universal vista from where the radiating resonance of deep Knowledge rekindled will soar in you, beloved soul.

Imagine a time long past in the ever flowing movement of timelessness when all that existed was the sense of your own Presence, as yet unmanifested. The big creative Fiat had not occurred yet, the ocean of galaxies and their untold trillions of worlds had not formed yet, the infinite constellation of life forms, perceptible or not, had not been manifested yet. But That Which senses in you was pregnant with all of that, curled deep down in the infinitely complex matrix of Source, as so many promises that would one day bloom to fruition in celebration of the orgasmic creative potential of That Which existed before All That is, and will exist forever when All That Is is no more.

Seeing "things" from this viewpoint activates dormant channels in you which have always kept you in entangled touch with Source. The sense of Oneness goes very deep indeed... and yet always floats cloaked just behind the façade of your outward layer of consciousness, the one that ignores so much it doesn't know it ignores that much.

So here and now you are, primed and ready to hear your story... well, not the whole Story, it would take forever, literally. A rough sketch will suffice to get you startled, and started or propelled forward on your own journey of self-discovery. For, you see, you have to make the effort, to set aside time and explore the landscape on your own for this information to have relevance and significance to you. Without your involvement, it will just remain a nice story, like a fairy tale of no consequence to how you think and feel.

Again, imagine a lush planet teeming with millions of life forms. Let's call it Terra. It sits on the edge of an unremarkable galaxy in an unremarkable neighborhood of this universe. It is not the first one where the primeval soup has ripened into planet-wide ecosystems forming an intricately connected web of life. And it is definitely not the only one. Life is a normal by-product of the natural laws governing this creation. Terra has seen many civilizations come and go as it slowly matured through it multiple spasms of mass extinction and mass resurgence of Life. This current civilization is indeed merely the latest instance of its many incarnations, just like you. And, as a soul, you have been around for much longer than you currently think. You've seen it all, arising, thriving, exploring, expanding, conflicting, bustling, exhausting and vanishing, with relatively few remnants of past iterations still visible despite the abundance of archeological finds so far. And you will most likely be around as well for many more. But this time it won't be merely limited to a single planetary field of experience. This galaxy is waiting for us to rise and shine like few others did before in the profusion of other civilizations that have come and gone, or are still perfectly thriving.

But what is so special about us, humans? So far, we don't seem to be a particularly stellar example of intelligence and foresight. We have laid waste to much of the life-sustaining biotope we depend on for long term survival and seem to care very little about the living conditions our descendants will have to deal with. We built more than enough nuclear fire power to obliterate many times over most life forms on our planet. Are we even worth protecting and saving? Apparently so. You see, there are many advanced, spiritually evolved civilizations that care enough for us to have prevented on numerous occasions the nuclear madness from blowing us all up, and to have done continuous behind-the-curtains efforts to help us reach this point where we are finally getting ready to collectively entertain the fact that we are not alone in this universe, and thus take the first steps towards creating a global, peaceful and united civilization that could be welcome by those that have contributed to make this possible.

However most people still have a pretty skewed and distorted perception about other intelligent life forms theoretically existing somewhere out there. And there is a whole convoluted set of reasons why most have been conditioned through the pervading influence of corporate media and entertainment industry to view them as a potential existential threat to all of us. Of course, anyone who is curious and discerning enough can today find enough evidence of non Terran beings manifesting their presence to humans in all kinds of ways since the early 40's and even well before "modern" times. Those who are at the forefront of the investigation into this vast subject have come to understand that behind the veil of outer appearances studiously maintained by corporate media and government officialdom, there lies a vast apparatus of secret black projects that have been surreptitiously funded over the past 70 years to built a kind of parallel civilization with fleets of small and large spaceships that can "take ET home" as Ben Rich, Lockheed Skunk Works director, famously revealed in 1995.

These outstanding developments have been kept hidden to most for various reasons, some acceptable, some not. But this is a complicated topic and the point of this is not to draft a detailed description of what happened and why. Most people need tangible evidence to accept things lying outside of the realm of the commonly accepted paradigm or cultural consensus about what is politically and socially correct to believe in. And that is fine. In fact, it is more than fine. It is essential. For without enough reliable proofs, we have been repeatedly led to believe in strongly abhorrent things for many centuries — just think about the religious conflicts that have left a bloody trail of martyred innocents behind them, or about Nazism, communism, capitalism, globalization and other similar dogmatic beliefs responsible for so much suffering and destruction. Many are easily misled, because we know so little about who we really are and all we can become.

But change is here. It's happening in large part through the millions of souls who came to assist in the current transition to a new era of Light and Love unlike anything that happened before. "Coincidentally", a good friend of mine recommended me to watch a short video last December 9. It is entitled A GATHERING OF THE TRIBES. I recommend you give it a look too. Here is the link: <https://youtu.be/XinVOpdcBvc>

And here is what I wrote to her just after watching it.

Spoiler Alert! You may want to watch it before reading this...

"Thanks Kate. This is indeed a nice story that speaks to many people (as we can see in the comments under the video) who experience the same feeling of not really fitting in this tough place, and sensing a deep calling rising through the now widening cracks in the wall of oblivion.

It's metaphoric of course, but the fact is millions of starseeds from other civilizations and dimensions have incarnated here to facilitate this planet's transition into a higher dimension, forgetting at first their true identity and mission, and then gradually discovering them after adjusting as best as they could to the conditions down here.

And all souls here, including the newbies, are each part of a tightly knitted family of usually about 15 souls (according to Michael Newton's discoveries as described in Journey of the Soul) sharing the evolutionary journey as they go from one life experience to the next, with assimilation and regeneration stints in the higher dimension of Love where we all come from, before going back for another "rotation" in the physical realm.

If we could suddenly remember it all at once and realize how majestically wonderful and Loveful our soul journey is, we would melt into such a tearful bliss and could not believe that such a powerful memory spell is possible to deprive us of this immortal Knowledge about Who We Are.

The global meditations I've been led to facilitate over the past 21 years were part of the preparation stage for what is just about to happen on a massive global scale. This has been a privilege and wonderful opportunity to be of service to my beloved thousands of companions in this journey who have been touched at some point in its long arc in time.

Many of these starseeds who have managed well with their respective missions are now celebrated on the other side of the veil for their growing accomplishments, as well as in the magnificent star ships that have gathered in our solar system to also facilitate the astounding rise in collective awakening and liberation that is about to transpire, with far-reaching repercussions in the space-time Continuum for this galaxy and many others nearby.

Even the Council of Nine and representatives from the Intergalactic Confederation have converged here to witness the crowning achievement of plans set in motion a very, very long time ago. [see <https://exopolitics.org/contact-with-council-of-nine-24-et-seeder-races/>] The Universal Consciousness Field is quivering in anticipation of what is already a bright, dazzling future just ahead in the Continuum.

It is just before the first faint glimmers of dawn that darkness is at its most intense — that things seem the worst right before they improve. To many, this darkness seems utterly oppressive and endless right now. But I've felt for years what is coming once the sun of Love rises on the horizon and bathes this beloved planet with its glorious healing rays. Soon in half a century, in the blink of a cosmic eye, the souls of this planet will join the far greater family of evolved and peace-loving worlds among which a destiny beyond our wildest imaginings awaits us - and it will BE us all who will partake in this collective return Home of the prodigal children of Source."

(End of quote)

I felt it was fitting to share this with you. Both because it helps prepare us for the upcoming solstice meditation and because you too need the opportunity to find what I deem to be a relatively reliable source — at <https://exopolitics.org> — to further explore this complex topic. Of course, you need to use your own soul discernment when digging into this. You take what feels right to you and leave aside what does not. Through this vast and old website from Michael Sallas, I discovered a book by Elena Danaan who offers tantalizing stories about her personal direct contacts with a very close friend from another civilization where Elena's soul is from. I thought you might enjoy an excerpt ("A message from the Star Visitors" below) from this book "We Will Never Let You Down: Encounters with Val Thor and Journeys Beyond Earth" which you can easily find on the Web.

I will leave you with this for now and write back to you Sunday evening with the final instructions for the Solstice meditation "Symphony of Souls" this coming Tuesday..

Jean / Amanumenoum

This is archived at http://www.earthrainbownetwork.com/pdf/This_is_THE_Moment.pdf

It is also posted at <https://www.facebook.com/AwakeningKeys/posts/1801843483359709>

* * * * *

A message from the Star Visitors

Thor Han Eredyon – Galactic Federation of Worlds To the People of Terra

There are coming times of understanding when we will know each other through our differences, accepting through differences our common status as members of the same cosmic family.

We have come from far and near. We have come from space and time to lend our hand in love and peace. We came to fight alongside your armies for justice and balance, for freedom and for life, for the rights and dignity of all sentient life forms in this galaxy, honoring and defending the great universal principle of evolution, serving and preserving the values that bind us all together In the woven web of cosmic consciousness, serving and preserving all life as yours. We are people like you, only born somewhere else.

But in the embrace of Source we are members of the same family. The Galactic Federation of Worlds and the Higher Councils are welcoming Terra with pride and love Into the new galactic era and a future of limitless possibilities.

Declaration of Cosmic Cooperation

Because of the course of events on Earth, it has become necessary for we humans to declare our desire to join with peaceful civilizations throughout the Universe to save Earth and ourselves from our own excessive self-interest.

We desire to use our creativity to assure that all living things on Earth are free to enjoy the resources and beauty of Creation now and throughout future generations. We hold these truths to be sacred and undeniable; that all are created with the right to enjoy the Universe and receive sustenance; all are endowed with certain inalienable rights, among these are Life, Liberty, and the realization of Happiness; that to secure these rights we recognize that the denial of the rights of any living thing affects the rights of all beings in the Universe.

Civilizations are legitimized by their ability to promote these rights for all life now and in the future.

They should exist for the purpose of recognizing and serving the unity of life.

To the extent that they promote primarily their own identity, they inhibit the recognition and implementation of this unity. Extreme identification with any part of the whole Cosmos, be it a particular region of the Cosmos, a planet, nation, religion, race, institution, or species is detrimental to individual and collective peace throughout the Universe.

We humans have changed life on Earth.

We have converted valuable resources into waste products.

We have threatened the very existence of life on Earth with our weapons of mass destruction, mass pollution, and mass poverty.

We have allowed our strong desire for independence to interfere with our innate and natural qualities of goodness, love, and sharing.

We have been lured into the belief that our individual lives are more important than the lives of others, wherever they reside.

We humans now choose to change our approach to all of life to be that of service-to others, rather than service-to-self.

We vow to eliminate our over-identification with our particular individual lives and with our planet.

We vow to create a new sense of cooperation that values the life force within everything.

We pledge our lives to cocreating a Universe where all beings can more easily remember their natural freedom, unity, and goodness.

We pledge that we, the people of Earth, shall strive to become peaceful and productive members of the Universal community of beings.

- Tom Hansen, Ph.D.

It may be felt as an emotional moment when we come to complete a cycle. But as I have learned with my beautiful friends, circles have no beginning and no end. Sometimes, circles can be a spiral seen from above or even a sphere in disguise. When we change perspective, we understand that time is revolving infinitely, and that every completion is just a new beginning, that transits to a higher level, carried with grace on the arms of a spiral. These are the cycles of the seasons, of night and day, of dark and light, of death and life. Time is the breathing of the Universe, its eternal heartbeat. Time is not linear; it is a sphere, where each point is at equidistance from the center. And at the epicenter of the sphere, is Awareness.

Planet Earth is undergoing its great "Revolution", right now, reaching out to a higher level on the unravelling arm of the spiral, emerging gloriously from its dark night of the soul. We have overcome the darkness and we are now embracing the golden light of dawn. It is not the time to look back anymore; it is the time to look forward. The future is amazing, it is seeded already in the present. I was shown the future of Terra. I was shown a world in peace, a unified world of federated countries, each keeping its identity and culture, as things should be naturally, starting first at an individual level. This is the difference between a new world order and a new free world. Both may seem unified, but in fact these two systems are completely opposite. A new world order annihilates freedom at all levels, divides to conquer, erases identities and takes the power away from the people. A new free world celebrates identity and individuality, unifies in peace and empowers the people. This is where we are heading to: a peaceful federated world of free individuals.

The greatest challenge ever, for humanity of Earth, is to get on with each other, and it starts within, at an individual level. We need not to wait for the governments to do it. It is up to us, to do it ourselves, because liberation will come from within. Once we heal our wounds, no one can hurt us anymore. We stop being vulnerable to manipulation and mind-control. We are free from our chains.

"Justice is transforming pain into peace."

I think a famous Egaroth said that? Once we heal inside and make peace within ourselves, we don't need anymore to project our conflicts outside, appealing to people who will respond to the same energy. Once we heal inside, we are at peace, and we radiate peace. And this is how you change humanity at a planetary level. It all starts within, this is the key. A key which was left by the wise ancients, carved in the stones of a Greek temple in Delphi: "Know thyself".

This is the key to everything.