

Final Reminder About the Global Push for Peace in Ukraine

Beloved souls,

This Sunday, April 20, was set to be our final global meditation for Peace in Ukraine as proposed last February 19 in...

Global Push for Peace in Ukraine

... which you may want to read once again to refresh your memory as to what was recommended.

Here is a salient excerpt:

(...) So when we attune our mind, heart and soul to the one vibration of Love that unites all, every mind, heart and soul feels it. And there, when One with All That Is, we can let Source do the talking and nudging so everyone, deep down, gets it. Peace is coming to mother Earth, starting with the hurting land of Ukraine, and then spreading to every other place where souls are hurting under the dark cloud of ignorance of our eternal Oneness through Source in us all.

So stand up for the Light of Love in all, arise from the ashes of a receding era and let your soul sing the crescendoing song of Love, so every heart of every awakening human stand still in the knowledge that we have always been and forever will be souls cocreating our common reality through the power of Source and the perpetual allowance of free will to BE all That We Are.

Practical suggestions

Wherever you are, whenever you feel like joining in, set aside 30 minutes or more of your time to meditate or, if you prefer, immerse yourself in prayerful abeyance, while enabling the soul that you are to rise and shine the glorious radiance of pure Love towards all those in a position of power to stand down armies, lock hearts in a race to make peace happen, and definitely turn the page of this stormy period of belligerence.

If you prefer to pick a moment in linear time that may be more propitious to add the voice of your soul to the chorus of peacemakers around the world, here is a suggested moment to join in meditation and prayer...

Every Sunday at noon, local time, until next April 20.

And if you wish to listen to the same musical background as others to elevate your experience to a high level of vibratory coherence, playing the following music should help get you there.

If you are interested to find out what is going on in the current surge of efforts to secure a ceasefire and a peace agreement possibly by Eastern to end the war in Ukraine, there is a plethora of news from various mainstream media you can find using the search words peace negotiations Ukraine.

Now since you may not have the time nor the inclination to review mainstream media articles to find out what's the current status of the negotiations towards a peace agreement in the war between Russia and Ukraine, you may wish to read the following articles, one from USA Today and one from Russia Television, to get a more balanced perspective.

Running out of patience, Trump could abandon peace negotiations in Russia's war on Ukraine

<https://www.usatoday.com/story/news/world/2025/04/19/trump-peace-talks-russia-ukraine-war/83166114007/>

US proposes leaving former Ukrainian territories under Russian control - Bloomberg

<https://www.rt.com/news/615961-russia-ukraine-peace-us/>

I've asked <https://chatgpt.com> to summarize these two articles...

Summary of Negotiations:

"The peace negotiations between Russia and Ukraine are at a critical juncture. President Donald Trump has expressed frustration with the slow progress, suggesting that the U.S. may eventually abandon the talks altogether. Trump's stance reflects growing impatience with the lack of tangible results. Meanwhile, Russia has shown interest in a new U.S. proposal that would allow it to retain control of territories in Ukraine it has occupied, including Crimea and parts of Donbas. Some U.S. diplomats have acknowledged this shift, arguing it may be necessary to achieve peace, but others remain opposed due to the territorial concessions it would entail. The situation is complicated by divergent views on the U.S. role in the peace process and its broader strategy."

Then I also asked: "Based on your overall understanding of what is in play globally in geostrategic terms, explain what is at stake if no peace deal is achieved and what are the possible calculus of both American and Russian political and military leaders going forward."

Geostrategy Analysis

"If a peace deal is not reached, the geopolitical stakes remain high. For the U.S., the war represents a significant test of its leadership and influence in Europe, as well as its ability to support democratic nations in the face of Russian aggression. Without a resolution, NATO members could face escalating threats from Russia, which would undermine the security of the alliance. For Russia, continuing the war could help maintain domestic support, especially among nationalists, but it risks further economic isolation and potential military setbacks. Both sides could become mired in a protracted conflict with no clear end in sight, impacting global stability."

Our next steps towards fostering global peace are contingent on this first step of a complete cessation of military hostilities between Ukraine and Russia to be achieved in a meaningful, sustainable way. So let's give these negotiations the nudge of trust-building Love energies to help make that happen, as guided by Source in us all.

Then we will focus our prayeful and meditative attention towards another conflict zone with the greatest potential for peaceful resolution.

Finally, may I suggest to your attention a video I've created recently - Enough is Enough - and this supporting document: Heaven or Havoc: Rethinking Humanity's Race for Space as well as this more detailed version.

Here is a summary of what this is all about...

The rapid expansion of satellite networks and space activities has profound environmental, geopolitical, and ethical consequences that remain largely unexamined.

Space is increasingly militarized, intertwining with AI, surveillance, and global power struggles, while lacking updated treaties or environmental assessments.

The document calls for a cooperative, peace-oriented paradigm shift and immediate action to ensure space benefits all life on Earth, not just powerful interests.

Thanks for your participation in this global effort for Peace on Earth,

Jean
